

LESSON. NO. 2—THE CITY EDITOR EXPLAINS HOW THE PITCHER WORKS

MIKE YOKEL
WINS THE MATCH

Mike Yokel took two forfeited falls from Walter Miller of St. Paul at Salt Lake, Monday night, without exerting his prowess on the mat to any great extent. In the first bout, which went a little over 39 minutes, Mike was on his hands and knees when Miller climbed on his back. Miller's legs dangled down to the mat, and Mike promptly grabbed one of Miller's ankles, drawing it back and holding it with his legs. He was then in a position to grasp Miller's foot with one hand and give him the toe-hold twist. It was a dangerous position from Miller's standpoint, and Miller knew it. Mike reached back and took hold of the toe, and then he asked Miller to forfeit before his leg was broken, and Miller, realizing the shape he was in, forfeited the match rather than have his leg broken or his ankle wrenched.

Miller was inclined to rough it with Yokel from the start, and in the second bout both men played rough. Miller butted Yokel with his head several times, and then Mike jabbed Miller in the nose with his hand. It was not a vicious jab, but it made the blood flow copiously. Miller continued the rough work, and a few minutes later Yokel, who couldn't draw his adversary into taking holds, jabbed him in the face again, causing his nose to begin bleeding freely again. At that Miller flopped down on the mat and rolled outside the line. Referee Harker cautioned him to resume the bout or it would be forfeited, and when he failed to get back on the mat the fall was forfeited to the local man.

Yokel's next match probably will be Gehring of St. Paul. A match between the two was agreed upon some time ago. At the match Monday night, Yokel weighed in at 157 while his opponent, who failed to weigh in, gave his weight as 153.

JOHNSON JOINS AMERICANS.

New York, May 28.—Carl Johnson of the University of Georgia, six feet one inch in his stocking feet, and holding a strike-out record of 22 out of 27 men at bat at a regular nine-inning game, has been added to the pitching staff of the New York Americans. It was announced today. He will report in a few days.

JACK DOES ROAD WORK.

East Las Vegas, N. M., May 28.—Jack Johnson yesterday began training for his fight with Jim Flynn on July 4 by taking long runs into the surrounding country. He has chosen training quarters near the center of old Las Vegas. Promoter Currier said yesterday that the ticket sale for the bout would open today.

There is no particular reason for supposing that this most recent discussion of ways and means will lead to a bout. So far as fight talk is concerned, Packey and Ad always stand bravely to their guns, but there are so many ways of avoiding the main issue when it comes to a pinch. In the present instance Tom Jones, who arranges ring dates for Wolgast, has already said that his champion will expect $20,000 for his end of the emoluments. Well, under existing conditions it is not the easiest thing in the world to draw a $20,000 house in New York, let alone give one of the fighters the amount for his services, so that there is little danger of a Wolgast-McFarland clash so long as the naming of the terms is left to Jones.

If there were real danger of a Wolgast-McFarland match there would be much discussion as to whether Wolgast was acting wisely in agreeing to box the Chicagoan at this time. If the little champion is given to thinking at all he must have gathered from his recent experience with Willie Ritchie that there is such a thing as getting into harness too soon after an operation for appendicitis.

He told some of his friends in San Francisco that he had learned a lesson, but if he arranges to meet McFarland, admittedly the most dangerous of all his rivals, for an early June date, as the eastern dispatches say, it is not easy to see that the Ritchie affair acted as a warning.

A McFarland-Wolgast contest—if there is to be one—is a matter that lends itself readily to comment, but it will be as well to wait until the meeting appears more imminent than it does just now.

The business men who took over the franchise on the assurance of the fans that this is a good ball town already stand to lose money on the season.

Every time we think of the fellows who "panned" old Dick we laugh. Old Dick is a smart guy. He got out when the going was good.

AD IS DICKERING
YET WITH PACKEY

(By W. W. Naughton.)
San Francisco, May 28.—News has come from over the wires that Ad Wolgast and Packey McFarland are dickering for a 10-round bout in New York. Of course it's nothing new for Ad and Packey to dickering—they sometimes go so far as to begin training—but they never, never get together in a ring.

There is no particular reason for supposing that this most recent discussion of ways and means will lead to a bout. So far as fight talk is concerned, Packey and Ad always stand bravely to their guns, but there are so many ways of avoiding the main issue when it comes to a pinch. KRAUSE RELEASED
BY CONNIE MACK

Connie Mack has made up his mind that he has to have room for pitchers that are available and can deliver the goods. Within three weeks he has three new men coming from the college ranks who are touted as wonders, so the only thing left for him was to release some of those who had failed to show this season. As a result, Krause was released to Toledo. He had been in poor form this year, and although he reported in the best shape physically and was much heavier than a year ago, he has not won a game in which he started.

His failure disgusted Mack, who has carefully nursed him along after two bad seasons, and when he did not show this year the leader of the world's champions decided that Harry's days of usefulness in the major league were at an end.

In 1909 he was the sensation of the American league, winning the first 10 games which he pitched, but in 1910 and 1911 he was of little use, when the team won both championships.

Mack still has Plank, the veteran southpaw, who is as good as ever, and Russell, who has yet to deliver.

WELLS HERE AFTER
JOHNSON'S HONORS

New York, May 28.—Bombardier Wells, heavyweight champion of England, is here to get a match with Champion Jack Johnson, if possible. Wells is a likely looking man, standing six feet two inches and weighing 195 pounds. There is not an ounce of fat on him, and strange to say, he does not show a mark from the encounters by which he won his way to the top of the fighting heap in England.

McFarland had beaten Matt Wells, our lightweight champion, we could scarcely believe it.
"I came over here to meet Al Falzer and ultimately to get a fight with Champion Jack Johnson, if I can. It was a shame and unfair for the authorities to call off my bout with Johnson in London. They feared that I would be seriously injured. Well, I guess I could have taken care of myself, and I told them so, too, but then you can't tell British police officials anything, once they have made up their mind."

"I'm going to Rye Beach, N. Y., until my sea legs get the kinks out of them, then I will be in a position to talk business. I would like to fight Falzer on the Fourth of July at some place on the coast where we can go over the 10 round limit. If I conquer Falzer, I don't think I would have much trouble in getting a bout with Johnson."
